Swept Away

is every excuse of the Poor Man, who for want of a chance, has
No Home, No Church

With us this is not a matter of guess work or experiment. At Empire, California, is the proof of our claims. Where four years ago there was a wheat field, today is a nice town, a $4,000.00 Church with about 250 members; and land values have increased amazingly.

You Have Choice of Propositions

We have now arranged to operate in Three New Places, in New Mexico, in Arizona and in California. In each case we guarantee the very best of soil, water and climate.

Our Poor Man's Chance

1. Those who can pay for land in cash or three annual payments will be grouped and offered land at lowest wholesale price.
2. Those desiring long time will pay one tenth cash, balance on or before 10 years.
3. Those who prefer can begin by renting the land and buying when able to do so, paying for it with  $\frac{1}{2}$  the crop like rent—

What More Do You Want?

We do not offer you something for nothing, and have no sympathy with schemers who lead you to expect $500.00 profit from $10.00 land. We offer honest goods.

If you know what you want and are willing to use your own eyes and do your own thinking; we want you with us, believing that we can work for the benefit and profit of both.

WANTED—320

In The

I F you are a man of family, ambitious to get on in the world, and willing to do your part, we will put you in position to make money and gain independence.

¶ This company owns a large tract of land in the fertile Toyah Valley of Southwestern Texas. This land has been pronounced by experts, the richest and most productive soil in the state.

¶ We have taken ten sections and divided them into 320 tracts of twenty acres each. Each of these farms will be leased for a period of three years, with the privilege of making it five, to a man of family, under conditions that never before have been offered. This liberal contract will enable a man with little capital to make more money from twenty acres than he ever earned from eight times the acreage in the east or north.

HERE IS THE PROPOSITION TO YOU

We will lease one of these little farms to you for the period mentioned above, turning over the place to you ready to be planted.

We will furnish the water for irrigation without cost to you.

On each quarter section we are putting down wells and installing pumps with power sufficient to raise water for the proper irrigation of the entire one hundred and sixty acres. From each well we will construct a ditch that will deliver water to each twenty-acre place.

All land will be broken and plowed ready to take water when the crops need it.

We will furnish the seed for planting, and our superintendent will show you how to get it into the ground so as to get the greatest returns.

On each twenty-acre tract we will build a comfortable cottage, barn, chicken house, hog yard, and other needed out-buildings. All you have to do is to go onto the farm and go to work.

You will have to furnish your own work animals and farm machinery—but we will arrange matters so that you may buy the necessary implements and pay for them at the end of the season.

American Realization Company

Ambitious Families Toyah Valley

HERE IS WHAT WE REQUIRE OF YOU

Having fulfilled our part of the contract, we make but two requirements of our tenants other than he must be a man of good character.

1st. He must plant eighteen acres to cantaloupes, water, cultivate, and harvest them, giving to the company one-half the returns from the crop and retaining the other half as his share.

2nd. He must have a family of at least five. This for the reason that a less number cannot handle eighteen acres of this crop and get the best returns.

To make a success of this opportunity we are offering, the tenant must have not less than $500 in money when he comes. With this capital success is certain.

WHAT TWENTY ACRES SHOULD EARN

We have taken as a basis for calculating the returns the experience of those who are now in the valley who will be your neighbors. While experienced growers have, and are making as much as $400 an acre from their cantaloupes, that is above the average; but a man of average energy who will go honestly to work, can make at least $150 an acre every year. On this basis your share from the eighteen acres would be $1,350. The two acres about the house you may plant to such crops as you wish, and the earnings from this land is yours. We confidently state that we believe that any man can clean up $1,500 on one of these places in a year.

Don't you believe that this is worth your while? Do you realize what this may mean to you and yours? Is it not a chance to break the chains that bind; a chance to get into the glorious west; a chance to make a good living for your family under ideal conditions of climate and social surroundings; a chance to build a bank account, to gain friends, independence, and a new outlook on life?

Of course it is. Don't hesitate, you can't lose by at least investigating; by looking into this unprecedented proposition.

Ask your wife what she thinks of it, talk it over with the family; write for further particulars. This is an opportunity that may never come again.

Just address your letter to

Fact
One

175% On His Money

Mr. U. M. Gramley says:—"Five years ago I bought 40 acres of land in the San Joaquin Valley, California, paying $100.00 per acre for it. It was a new place with 20 acres of peach trees and 20 acres of alfalfa. My income from this for the past 3 years was as follows:

Fruit sold from trees, .....$1,908.71
Dried Fruits, ..... 5,127.50
Alfalfa hay, ..... 1,995.00

Total for 3 years, .....$9,041.21

Mr. Gramley has refused $500.00 an acre for his property which five years ago cost $100.00 per acre.

This is 100% Annual Increase on just his investment

Fact
Two

Mr. W. M. Hemminger says:—"Five years ago I came from Whiteside County, Illinois, and bought 23½ acres of land in the San Joaquin Valley, California, paying $50.00 an acre. I now own 67 acres of which 20 acres are vines and trees and the balance in alfalfa. My crop income each year is about $3500.00. Today I could sell my farm for $300.00 per acre.

Fact
Three

Mr. Andrew Kern says:—"Three years ago I moved from Pine City, Minnesota, to the San Joaquin Valley, and bought 40 acres of land at $80.00 per acre. I now have 16 acres of this in vineyard, 12 acres in alfalfa, and the balance in orchards and raw land. My vines and trees will come into bearing next year. My poultry yields me large revenue and the future looks bright. I would not sell my farm for Five Hundred Dollars an acre.

We Want To Start You

on the way to do as well as these and thousands of others have done. We offer to sell you a homestead of this very fine cultivated wheat land at $100.00 to $150.00 per acre, on such terms that you can not fail to own a beautiful California Home in a short time.

These lands are near Empire and adjacent to the Turlock District—one of the best developed and most prosperous sections of California—where lands sell at $200.00 to $600.00 per acre.

Our lands lie directly along two trans-continental Railway Lines and are the best possible for the general farmer who desires to produce Alfalfa, Dairy Cows, Truck and Fruits.

A few of our Church people already have homes near by, and we desire to build up here another strong Church quickly as we did at Empire.

Write us at once for full particulars. Don't delay.

“5250 People have come here in the last ten days”

So wrote a friend of ours, in October, from Phoenix, Arizona. Since the completion of the Roosevelt Dam and Reservoir for irrigating a quarter of a million acres of farm lands, the Salt River Valley has become the Mecca of Homeseekers as well as Health Seekers. But there is yet room for millions more, and we want you to know the facts about this wonderful Valley and especially a town of 300 people with a million dollar Beet Sugar Factory, ten miles from Phoenix, the State Capital, with which it is connected by electric car line. Here a small group of our people already have homes, and a Church. They recommend the country and ask you to help fill up this Valley, which has room for a hundred Church Congregations. Here is the largest and most dependable Irrigation Proposition in the United States. Here is a soil containing 20% soluble plant food. The richest on Earth. A climate unsurpassed. Lots of good people and a Church.

WHAT THEY ARE DOING

The almost perfect combination of climate, soil and water makes possible a large variety of crops that yield each year products valued at from $100.00 to $1000.00 per acre. Hence small farms are the rule—20 acres being enough for the most industrious family. H. J. Biggs came here for his health. He bought ten acres from which he took $800.00 to $1,500.00 each year and then sold it at $700.00 per acre.

ALFALFA, MELONS AND FRUIT

are the best money crops.

Alfalfa is cut 6 to 8 times and runs from $50.00 to $150.00 per acre. Alfalfa is a guarantee of large profits with pigs, chickens and cows.

Mr. Hirst can show you a herd of ten Jersey Cows that bring their owner $1240.00 worth of Butter fat each year. $124.00 per cow.

Another herd of 16 cows where the product was sold retail made $208.00 per cow, or $3,334.00 for the year.

Mr. Murphy made $6484.00 from 12½ acres of Cantaloupes, crop of 1911. $518.74 per acre.

Of course you may not do this well, but these samples show what can be done.

We have in mind an Orange Grove, whose owner refused $1600.00 per acre for it.

We offer you here either improved homes, or raw lands at prices ranging from $50.00 and $150.00 per acre upwards—Good Rentals may be had also.

A Biographical Sketch of Eld. Grabill Myers

By James A. Sell.

He was born in Lancaster County, Pa., Jan. 6, 1808. August, 1831, he was united in marriage to Magdalena Weidler. In 1833 they located in Union County, and in 1834 removed to Kishoquillas Valley, in Mifflin County. While here, both he and his wife united with the Church of the Brethren, being then in

Eld. Grabill Myers, an Old-Time Preacher.

A man of intelligence, after listening to a sermon by Eld. Myers, said: "He could fence the largest field with the fewest rails of any man I ever heard."

the bounds of the Dry Valley church, which was under the care of Eld. Joseph Rothrock. In 1839 he located in the Aughwick church, Huntingdon County, which was at that time in charge of Eld. Christian Long, Sr. While here, in 1840, he was elected to the ministry, simultaneously with Christian Long, Jr. (who later located at Mount Carroll, Ill., and still later at Dallas Center, Iowa). In 1851 he located in the Warriors Mark church, Huntingdon County. He owned a farm in the extreme upper end of the congregation, about three miles north of Altoona. When he retired from farming he purchased a small home at Eldorado, Blair County, in the Duncansville church, where he resided until death.

He was father of eight children,—four sons and four daughters. His wife died Jan. 24, 1880. Oct. 15, 1887, he attended the love feast at Altoona, did some preaching and seemed to be unusually happy. He had been confined to his home for some time, on account of bodily infirmities, but now, feeling well, he desired to mingle again with his brethren and, accordingly, arranged to attend the love feast in the Clover Creek church at Morrison's Cove on the 27th. He not only participated in the ordinances, but did part of the preaching. He spoke on the Lord's supper, and it proved to be his last sermon. Prior to passing the sacramental bread he lined and sang:

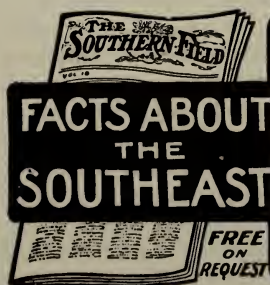

"Amen, amen my soul replies,
I'm bound to meet you in the skies,
And claim my mansion sure.
Now here's my heart, and here's my hand,
To meet you in that heavenly land,
Where we shall part no more."

After the passing of the cup he withdrew from the table and went to the home of Eld. J. W. Brumbaugh, where he took his bed, from which he never rose. After suffering the most distressing pain, death came to his relief Nov. 1.

It seemed so fitting that he who did so much traveling and preaching, and he who so dearly loved the cause of his Divine Master and the fellowship of his brethren, should be out on the field away from his home when death met him. He submitted to his fate bravely, and died like a Christian, looking for the palm of victory and the crown of glory. As the shades of death were deepening about him, the gates of light from the better land opened, and death was stripped of its terror.

His body was taken to his home at Eldorado. The funeral services were conducted by Elders James Quinter and James A. Sell. Six ministers conveyed him to the grave at Carson Valley, Blair Co., Pa. He was lowered into the grave just as the sun was setting.

It is a source of regret that there were so few of the incidents of his life recorded. Nearly all who lived and worked with him, in his prime, have gone to the silent grave. Their lips are forever sealed to the expression of the deeds of life. Those of us who knew and worked with him, only knew him after he had passed the zenith of his best days. However, even at this late date, we had more than a glimpse of him, for in a sense he never grew old. The world never got away from him. He was old with a young heart.

He received his education prior to the common schools. He was reared in a time and among people who did not greatly strive for education. In his day, schools and teachers and methods were in a crude state. His education was what is known as "limited." But what he lacked in education was, in a measure, supplied by native talent. He was a vigorous observer, had strong convictions, and was gifted with language and wit and humor. He believed in Jesus Christ; he believed in the doctrines, and believed them with his whole soul, preached them with all his might, and preached nothing else. A story never found a place to fit in one of his sermons.

His preaching was always along practical lines. The message of every discourse was the letter of the law and obedience thereto. He looked upon salvation as a contract. If man complied with his part, the Lord could with his. Once at a Sunday-school a referred question was given: "Who built Nineveh?" No one was just prepared with an answer. Bro. Myers answered that he thought it did not matter who built Nineveh; to hear what Christ said, and do it, was much more important.

He had some peculiarities which were either faults or virtues, as they were used or abused. Few preachers commanded a greater influence than he in the strength and vigor of his days. The announcement of his coming always meant a full house. His delivery was free and easy, and he spoke in a conversational style, in the language of everyday life, and the common people heard him gladly. Some of his flights were rather oratorical, but he never attempted a figure of rhetoric. It was easy for him to get credit for more ability than he possessed. He frequently used illustrations, and they were the plainest and simplest kind. They always contained a vital point that the most ordinary intellect could understand. There could be no mistake as to the application. Then, too, he possessed the rare ability of conveying his ideas in few words, and this made his sermons bristle with points which held the attention of his auditors.

He was no great reader. He secured his material for preaching more from observation and conversation than from books. This did not give him such a wide scope or depths to draw from, but what he lacked in this he made up in his aptness to present old things in a new light, and give them with the zest and freshness of originality.

He made but few preliminaries, but plunged at once into his subject. In this he was frequently eccentric and original. He did but little in the line of exhortation, and rarely made a convert as a direct result of a sermon. He seemed to think that it was his mission to preach the Word, and leave it with the individuals to work out their own case, at their inclination. His presentations on doctrinal subjects were, at times, masterly. Usually, however, his discourses were made up of remarks in a general way, yet he was entertaining and instructive. He looked his people squarely in the face, and his smiling countenance, earnest manner, plain words and peculiar gestures drew and held the attention of his hearers.

He was corpulent. His avoirdupois was in the region of three hundred pounds. For a number of years, during the latter part of his life, he used crutches in support of his lower limbs, and always leaned upon them while preaching. Even this circumstance was in his favor, as it invited sympathy. He was blessed with a cheery good nature, and this frequently bubbled over and gave his sermons a tinge of the humorous. He appealed to the risibles rather than to the seriousness of his hearers. He moved his people to smiles rather than to tears.

For many years he was favored with a pass on the railroad, a privilege which he used frequently and enjoyed immensely. He had retired from all business, and this gave him an opportunity to visit among the churches and preach for them. He was accorded a hearty welcome wherever he went, but he did not continue long in one place. He mostly received the preference, and usually was the first speaker at the meetings where he was present, and also officiated at the love feasts. He gained such a hold upon the laity that he was missed and spoken about with regrets when he was not present.

Great as his influence was, and as much preference as was given him, he was not hurt when he did not receive it. He was not jealous or envious of others who might be looked upon as rivals. He could listen to a sermon with as much relish as he felt in delivering his own, and would respond in a public way to what he approved of. But he became restless while listening to a prosy sermon. He frequently remarked that he did not care who preached, if it was only done in a way that the "cause did not suffer."

It may not be generally known that the plan of dividing the church into State Districts originated with him. Wherever he went in his frequent visits among the churches of Pennsylvania he talked about it, both in private and in public. To him belongs the honor of bringing to pass the system of State Districts throughout the Brotherhood. He lived to see his plans fully adopted and never, while health permitted, failed to attend and take an active part in the District Meetings of Middle Pennsylvania. And such was his inbred modesty that he never referred to the work he did in giving to the church this new order of things. It is also worthy of notice that this departure was adopted with little opposition.

While his jovial disposition and cheery nature made him a popular preacher, they had the opposite effect as an official in church government. It was thought by some that he was too jovial to take anything seriously. He was not in great demand to serve on committee work. He served but once as moderator of District Meeting, and never served on the Standing Committee. He never took any part in the discussions at Annual Meeting. In matters of dispute or difficulties he was more for applying the modifying ointment than for probing the wound. In opening a case he would manifest firmness and severity, but before the investigation proceeded very far his great heart would melt in pity, and he was ready for a compromise.

Socially, he was an agreeable companion. He loved to be in company, and could adapt himself to his surroundings as few men can. He seemed to be equally at home in the humble cottages of the poor or the mansions of the rich. It mattered little to him if his company were rude lumbermen around a camp-fire, or grandmothers in the kitchen, or ministers in the sitting-room, he would lead the conversation and he never wanted for anything to talk about. His talks were usually on the practical side of moral and religious subjects. In fact, he spent nearly all his breath in talking for the church.

He lived on the sunny side of life, and never burdened or clouded the lives of others with his troubles. He rarely mentioned them. He seemed to have none, or did not allow them to come to the surface. As might be supposed, a man so active as he and mingling so much with others, and expressing so freely his opinions, would sometimes give offense. At such times he was always ready to make amends and ask forgiveness, and freely forgave when others wronged him. There was no malice in his heart.

He lived a long and useful life, and left the world a better place because he lived in it. There was not a stain upon his character. It seemed to be an easy thing for him to be a good man. His very nature seemed to be inclined in that way. He rarely manifested any temper. He entirely controlled or never had any outbursts of passion.

He loved his Savior and his Gospel and the church, and delighted in the service. He rejoiced in the advance of righteousness and peace. He was extensively known and honored among the churches of his native State, and it is due him that the generation following should know something of this man of God, who went in and out among our churches and perhaps did more preaching than any man of his day. In many respects he set an example worthy of imitation. His mantle may be taken up by others, but not many will receive a "double portion of his spirit."

"He came to his grave in full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in his season."

Elder Peter Nead in Rockingham County, Virginia

By D. H. Zigler.

Unique in the history of the early church in Rockingham County, Virginia, stand the labors of Eld. Peter Nead. His attraction to the church, his devotion to her services and his willingness to sacrifice any personal desire for her welfare is a story well worth telling over and over again.

Peter Nead, a class-leader and lay-preacher, identified with the Methodist church, was led to a closer investigation of Bible teaching by reading a little book, a treatise on Christian baptism, written in the German by Eld. Benjamin Bowman, whose home was near Harrisonburg, Va. A visit to that community, at the time of a love feast, and further inquiry into the teaching and practice of the church, were sufficient fully to convince Bro. Nead, and his baptism immediately followed.

From the first his love for the services of the church was quite noticeable, and in a short time he was ordained to the ministry. In this important calling his ability to serve the church was augmented by his command of the English language. Prior to this time the preaching was almost wholly in the German, although this language was fast being supplanted by the English. Therefore, the acquisition of an efficient minister in this tongue was of inestimable value to the church. Bro. Nead soon was known as the "English preacher," and his services were eagerly sought after. These calls were not turned away and it is generally conceded that his timely ministrations materially assisted the church in gaining the prestige so noticeable throughout the county.

Furthermore, the transition from the service in German to the English, that quickly followed, was without opposition on the part of the membership. Elder Nead's fidelity to the church, with his willingness to sacrifice any personal preference for the sake of his fellow-members, allayed any feeling of resentment.

In order to show more clearly his disposition to yield, an instance frequently mentioned is here given. At first Bro. Nead was rather stylish in his appearance, and the brethren did not take kindly to it. Especially were there objections to his custom of wearing a tall, white hat, after the order of the clergy of that day. The question arose how best to approach him in this matter. Finally, one Sunday, at the close of the meeting, Eld. Benjamin Bowman, at whose home the services were held, asked Bro. Nead to take a walk with him to the barn. On entering and closing the door, he drew from the fanning mill a new, low-crowned hat. He said, "Bro. Peter, the brethren feel that the hat you wear is not in harmony with the humble profession you have made. We love you and desire that you may do a great deal of good in the church. Now, Bro. Peter, here is a new Brethren's hat that I bought you. Will you wear it?" Bro. Nead said, "Yes, I will." He not only took the hat and wore it, but changed all his clothing to the full order of the church. The kind, fatherly approach of Eld. Bowman is to be admired, but the full surrender on the part of Bro. Nead was no less heroic and fruitful of much good.

Eld. Nead's home life greatly strengthened his work in the ministry. Soon after uniting with the church, he formed the acquaintance of Elizabeth Yount, whose home was near Broadway, Va. Their marriage followed Dec. 20, 1825, and they settled on the Yount homestead. Here he spent fifteen years of his busy life. Beside meeting the calls for his ministerial service, he conducted a tanning business and taught school during the winter. It was his custom to rise at three o'clock in the morning and read, write, or commit passages of Scripture to memory until six o'clock, the usual breakfast hour. The duties of the day were met in systematic order, and the evenings were spent with the family or in communion with his God. A giant oak tree near his door, from beneath whose branches gushed a stream of bright sweet water, afforded him a favorite resort. Its beauty and its majestic proportions were inspiring to his vigorous mind. The fountain at his feet was constantly a suggestion of the "water of life" he was commissioned to declare unto a dying world.

His home was a veritable sanctuary unto the Lord. In his dwelling, although extensively remodeled, the partitions, hung on hinges, still remain. These, by means of rope and pulley, could be easily adjusted to accommodate the "meetings in turn." Here the children of God met from time to time to worship, until the erection of a meetinghouse half a mile away.

In 1833 Eld. Nead found time to write his "Primitive Christian," a book of one hundred and thirty-eight pages, treating on the ordinances of the Lord's house. In business Eld. Nead was prompt and true to his obligations, and it is said of him that he was never late at church.

Nearly a century has rolled away since the time of those busy years and great changes have been wrought. The old tan-house in which he labored has been razed to the earth, and the vats have fallen into disuse. Other scenes are being enacted day by day, but that life "hid with Christ in God," still remains, and to generations yet unborn the name of Eld. Peter Nead will be made known. Broadway, Va.

Red Pepper and Aunts.

A small boy who lived with his aunt and grandma, noticed that the regular black-pepper shaker was filled with red pepper. This startled him, and, turning to his aunt, who sat next at the table, he said: "You better not eat any of that red pepper, Aunt Harriet; grandma says that red pepper kills ants."

Annual Meeting of 1856

By J. D. Haughtelin.

This meeting, then called "Yearly Meeting," was held at the home of Bro. Michael Reber, on a farm near Lena, in Stephenson Co., Ill., May 10 to 14, 1856, in the Waddams Grove church, then a part of the Yellow Creek church. It was the first time Annual Meeting was held this far West. Bro. Henry Kurtz, in the Gospel Visitor, said: "In Illinois? Who would have thought, twenty or ten was not sent there, but was chosen after arriving on the grounds. There were no delegates sent by the local churches. All members present were entitled to a vote. There were no Missionary, Sunday-school nor Educational Meetings; no Mission Boards nor Foreign Missions to claim the attention of Annual Meeting. There was, however, a great deal of quiet, effectual home mission work years ago, that such a meeting of our Brethren would take place so far in the West?" Bro. John Kline, in his diary, said: "Saturday, May 10, a great concourse of people on the grounds." To realize the meaning of "Far West" and "great concourse of people," as it appealed to the writer and reader at that time, it is necessary to go back nearly threescore years and make due allowance for the many changes during that time.

The meeting was conducted in a very informal, but fraternal, zealous and reverential manner. As there were no State Districts, the Standing Committee carried on all around by earnest, self-denying, God-fearing, zealous brethren and sisters, the foundation of the great mission work of today.

The Sunday-school and educational work of the church was then in its infancy, except during the brief period in the early years of the church's organization, content to be tolerated, without asking the approval of Annual Meeting.

The Standing Committee had their rooms in the commodious residence. The large bank barn shown in the accompanying cut, was used as an auditorium. A large lumber tent was constructed for a dining-hall. The people

Of the old edition of the Inglenook Cook Book have been published. It gives such universal satisfaction and the demand is so great that we cannot discontinue its publication. It contains recipes by some of the best cooks in the land. Every recipe is simple, economical and practical. Many housewives say they have laid aside all other cook books and use only this one.

Size 5½x8 inches, 212 pages, bound in white washable oilcloth.

Price single copy 35 cents, per dozen, $3.50, prepaid.

were lodged and boarded free of charge. Homes of kind neighbors were opened to assist in lodging the people.

The funds, to defray the expenses of the meeting, were raised by the churches of Northern Illinois, principally in Carroll, Lee, Ogle and Stephenson Counties, as appears by the balance sheet. Though the attendance and expense of that meeting were small, as compared with the present time, it required much more sacrifice and self-denial on the part of the churches in the vicinity of Annual Meeting than at present.

On Sunday night it commenced to rain, and continued to rain until Wednesday forenoon. Bro. Kurtz, in the Visitor, said: "The rich, black soil by constant rain was so softened, and by the moving to and fro of the many people so much tramped and loosened, that every vestige of grass disappeared. One step from the door a person would sink into the mud ankle deep, while the rain continued to pour down. It was impossible for people, coming into the house, to clean their shoes sufficiently, and so the mud was carried into the house, upstairs, and everywhere in such quantities that it became difficult to walk up and down stairs without slipping. I never saw a house in such a condition before." I notice, in the expense account, twenty-five dollars was allowed for cleaning the house after the meeting.

In comparing the Minutes of that meeting, with the present, we see some change of sentiment along several lines; but, considering the great change in environment, it is remarkable what a beautiful harmony prevails. In the first article it is said that if a brother had taken more than lawful interest, he should be "required to restore what has been taken unlawfully." In the second article, property insurance is left optional. In Art. 4 they reaffirm their position on the temperance question.

At this meeting the committee, previously appointed by Annual Meeting to visit and confer with "the Western Brethren," who recognized Bro. George Wolfe, of Illinois, as their elder, made its report, which was accepted, and thereby all difference, that had previously existed, was so arranged that, ever after, they fellowshipped and labored together harmoniously. Eld. Geo. Wolfe was present at the meeting.

Art. 22.—A request, "urging that this Yearly Meeting devise a plan, how the church could fulfill the command of the Savior, in Matt. 28: 19, more effectually." This request, and answer given, show clearly that the missionary spirit of the Gospel was impressing, and urging the church then as well as in later years.

Art. 23 is a proposition to form State Districts, as we now have them. It was approved, though there was nothing definite done in the matter at that meeting.

Art. 24, the vexing divorce question was presented. The answer, "After a lengthy discussion this matter was referred to the next Yearly Meeting," shows that the problem was much the same as it is now.

Art. 28, "A request from the church in Fayette County, Pa., to have our dear brother, James Quinter, ordained," shows the importance attached to ordaining elders in those days.

Art. 34, "An appeal from a number of members in Story County, Iowa, to send brethren to them for the purpose of organizing a church." This "appeal" resulted in the organization of the Indian Creek church. Bro. Henry Flory was chosen to the ministry and installed with authority to baptize. He proved to be an earnest and efficient worker, and was ordained the next year. He traveled much among the isolated members in Western Iowa,—mostly by private conveyance, at his own expense. He and the writer conducted the first love feast ever held in Shelby County, about the first of July, 1863. He was taken severely ill soon after returning to his home. He was called from labor to rest

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Elgin, Ill.

Aug. 25, in the prime of life. Two of his sons were chosen to the ministry later on.

This description would be incomplete without a brief notice of the Waddams Grove church, where this long-ago Annual Meeting was held.

In the fall of 1848 the members living in Stephenson and Jo Daviess Counties, Ill., were organized into the Yellow Creek church. There were about thirty members, with Daniel Fry as their elder. In 1858 the Yellow Creek churchhouse was built. In 1859 the Yellow Creek church territory was divided, and the Waddams Grove congregation was organized, with about seventy-five members. Brethren Enoch Eby and Benjamin H. Kepner were the ministers, with Enoch Eby as foreman, in the absence of Daniel Fry as elder. In 1860 the Waddams Grove churchhouse was built on a lot donated by Michael Reber, about 100 rods from the 1856 Annual Meeting barn.

Michael Reber, who was conspicuous in connection with this Annual Meeting, was born of German descent in Pennsylvania, Oct. 16, 1817. The first love feast held in the Yellow Creek church was held in his home July 1, 1849. He was a faithful deacon and earnest worker in the Waddams Grove church until 1864, when he moved to Kansas, where he died May 22, 1907, "full of years and good works."

In conclusion, let us note a few of the advantages of today over fifty or sixty years ago. Then, to take care of Annual Meeting, was a great burden and sacrifice. Now, many places are anxiously calling for it. Then, Bro. Kurtz's little Monthly Gospel Visitor represented the publishing interests of the church at a sacrifice. Now, the Brethren Publishing House is a source of power for good, both in influence and funds. Then, comparatively few members were acquainted outside their home circle. Now, through the church literature and mission work, we are one great family, with personal acquaintance in many parts of the world. Our sympathies and efforts are more united. We should do more and better work as the years pass. As our opportunities increase, so will our responsibilities. Father, help us to realize it!

Elder S. S. Mohler

By Jesse D. Mohler.

In writing the biography of his father one can readily give too strong coloring to characteristics he has learned to admire in one so closely related. To avoid this the writer has, for more than a year, gathered material for this sketch from those who were acquainted with his father in early life, his associates in local and District church work and those who were associated with him in the work of the General Brotherhood. But few names are quoted, yet almost all that is here given is from the testimony of those best qualified to speak of the life and labors of Eld. S. S. Mohler.

Born near Covington, Ohio, Sept. 22,

1832, he wrestled with the problems of life until Dec. 4, 1893, passing away at his home in Warrensburg, Mo., after over four years of suffering.

He was the fourth son of Samuel and Catherine Saylor Mohler, who continued to reside near Covington until the close of a long life. His boyhood was such as was common in that day. He helped as needed on the farm, obtaining such schooling as opportunity afforded the average farm boy of that time. This was later supplemented by careful reading, habit of thought, and by association with those who had been more favored, until he was known for his keen perception, carefulness and accuracy of thought and for the strength of his views.

Nov. 3, 1853, he married Mary Ann Deeter, who even in her youth was known for her Christian character, and who for more than forty years was a faithful and efficient helper to one who was called on so much by the church. Four years after their marriage, Nov. 5, 1857, both he and his father were called to the ministry in the Covington church. He was advanced to the second degree of the ministry in the fall of '61 by the same congregation; and ordained to the eldership in the Mineral Creek (Mo.) congregation Oct. 8, 1870.

Early in his ministry he showed an ability that caused distrust on the part of those older in office. Preaching had been largely confined to explanation of Scripture and to exhortation. He perceived the possibilities of a developed discourse as he had seen in the work of but few of our ministers, and sought to work on that line. Those older in the ministry did not approve of that; and for several years his work was confined mainly to opening and closing the services.

During this time he had secured a claim in what is now Nemaha Co., Nebr.,—a rich farm for $1.25 per acre. However, this was then so far on the frontier that he would not move his family to it as a home, and traded it for land in Darke Co., Ohio, one-half mile west of the Harriss Creek churchhouse.

In 1861 he moved to this farm. He expected to be of more use in the ministry, but found that mistrust had preceded him. This was not lessened when, at the Annual Meeting held near Dayton, Ohio, in 1862,—as one writer informs us,—“S. S. Mohler, then a young minister, stood up for Sunday-schools, but was opposed by nearly all the old elders.” His looking forward to the needs of a growing church was not appreciated. However, the elder of the Harriss Creek church soon saw the merit in those views that had been the cause of distrust, and apologized to the young minister who, he had been told, “wanted to know too much.” After that the opposition to his methods ceased, and he worked freely as needed.

An enjoyable experience during his residence in the Harriss Creek church was his acquaintance with Bro. J. G. Royer, who was then a country school-teacher and a deacon in the church. The two families lived neighbors for five years and many pleasant associations were experienced.

Of this time Eld. Royer writes me: “We were together considerably; and I heard him preach quite often. . . . He always said something the hearer could take along home with him when he preached. . . . He was a hard student and a logical reasoner and would give his hearers something to think about. Everybody acknowledged his ability as a thinker and a logical expounder of Scripture. Your father in that day stood among the first of the young ministers of Southern Ohio. . . . When he went West he left many who regretted his leaving the work in Ohio.”

However, he felt that newer fields were in need of his help. At the invitation of Eld. John Harshey and the insistence of his cousin and associate of boyhood, John M. Mohler, who had preceded him, he brought his family to Johnson Co., Mo., in March of 1869. He soon located near what is now Leeton, and became one of four men who, with their wives, organized the Mineral Creek church Dec. 25, 1869.

During the years following, until calls for his assistance in matters of church government occupied much of his attention, he was active in building up the cause in that and surrounding territory. This often involved hardships such as are common to new countries, and many were the deprivations necessary, both for himself and family. He believed that when the Lord called him to go and preach he had special claim on the Lord's care for those he must leave at home; and sometimes went when human judgment said his family needed his care too much for him to leave. But the Lord proved himself, and all grew to manhood or womanhood and united with the church for which our father sacrificed so much.

Of the seven sons who witnessed his sacrifices, one died in early manhood, five were called to the ministry and advanced to the eldership, and one has seen considerable service as a deacon and as Sunday-school Secretary for his District. He saw his ten children in the church.

The conditions that resulted in the divisions of the Brotherhood developed our father's ability in church government. He was soon recognized as a leader in his home and surrounding congregations. This recognition was so marked in his home congregation that when the presiding elder cast his lot with the Old Order Brethren, father became, by common consent, the presiding elder of the Mineral Creek congregation, without any action of the church. He continued as such, unquestioned, during his active life, without any specified authority of the church.

From this time forward his work was among the organized churches of this and adjoining Districts and of the Middle States, and in dealing with problems of the church as a whole. One could hardly ask better appreciation than was shown him by associate elders of his District. For some years he had the oversight of a number of congregations and was actively interested in the welfare and progress of others. We often hear his name even now at our District Meetings.

Six times he was chosen moderator of District Meeting, and a number of times he served on Standing Committee. We have been told by one of his intimate associates that he was the originator of a number of the measures that passed Annual Meeting during the latter years of his activities; and a statement later quoted from Eld. D. L. Miller bears this out in part.

A perusal of Annual Meeting Minutes, from 1881 to 1890, and the work entrusted to committees of which he was a member, afford a better view of his work for the General Brotherhood than the writer can give. We notice that in 1889 he was chosen as moderator of Annual Meeting at Harrisonburg, Va. But even at this time the many cares of home and of the church, especially the strain of committee work in churches out of order, were telling on his strength, and before another year had passed he was an invalid. He suffered much during the following years, but retained his strength and clearness of mind on church work until so worn in body he could not gather the strength necessary for careful thought.

While, as given above, his best work was in church government, he both wrote and preached considerably. His work as a preacher was largely laying the foundations upon which others might build. He did not appeal so much to the emotions as to the power of thought; hence, to many his work was not so helpful as that of some less able ministers, but to those who could follow his line of thought it is said to have ranked with the strong work of his time.

Likewise his writings were of deep thought, careful and logical. While none of his writings is preserved, to our knowledge, the Classified Minutes of Annual Meeting proceedings stand as an evidence of his careful work and thoroughness.

In his home his greatest desire was, not for accumulation of property, but for the careful rearing of each child to Christian service and an honorable character founded on right thinking and right doing. During his sickness he said he had witnessed the answer to his most persistent prayer that he might see all his children in the church. His work among the churches was done, on account of his suffering, and he often thousands of subscriptions to the Gospel Messenger will reach us through our local agents and otherwise. We expect the number to be larger than last year. Some of these will be new subscribers. What if each present reader would introduce the Gospel Messenger in just one new home? How many new readers would there be? How many souls would be won for Christ? You can help in this worthy cause. Send one.

During This Month

prayed for release, which finally was granted after several years of pain.

He was very careful in all his business dealings, and in his living with his fellow-men, that he might not bring reproach upon the cause for which he labored. In his church work and his attitude to God he was deeply conscientious. He had to deal with many of the difficulties in which churches must call for assistance; and we have been told that even those who found his judgment against their course, respected him for the honesty and fairness of his ruling.

We close this sketch with a portion of a letter from Eld. D. L. Miller, who perhaps was more closely associated with him in his work for the general church than any one else now living:

"My impressions of your father were formed after some years of acquaintance, personal association, and of committee work in the church. Once I spent some time in his home and had a most delightful season with him. That season I shall never forget. He opened his heart to me, as friend to friend, and I found depths of feeling and spiritual intuition that were a revelation to me in the character of the man and brother. He was then in the very prime of mature judgment resulting from increasing years of experience. I regarded him after that as one of the rare men of our church. To me he was more than a nominal brother. He was a sympathizing, helpful friend as well as a loving Christian brother. Many letters he wrote me encouraging me in my work as Office Editor of the Messenger. These letters I still have, and I prize them highly.

"He was a clear and logical reasoner, of fine mental fibre, and a well-developed intellect. In committee work he was a wise and safe counselor, and was a faithful adherent to the principles of the Gospel as held by the church. Some of the wisest decisions of our Conference were suggested by him. One among many I may name: The ordination of elders only by consent of the elders of the State Districts. I was on the committee with him when the answer was framed; and, while Brethren R. H. Miller, Enoch Eby, Daniel Vaniman and myself were on the committee, the suggestion of the plan came from your father. I regard that as one of the best safeguards ever adopted by the church touching her ordinations. He was loved and respected by all who knew him."

Expressions from others might be given, but it is enough. His labors were closed near a score of years ago. The results of those labors are still evident in the church. It remains for the men and women of the church of today to respond to their opportunities as well as did many faithful ones of the times that are past, that the work may be as effective and as lasting as theirs has been in this generation.

Wrap Baker's Bread

An exchange calls attention to the fact that bread as a practical, universal article of diet seems to have received little attention from bacteriologists. From the time it leaves the oven until it reaches the consumer's table it has passed through the hands of several persons, has possibly been exposed to flies and dust, and is very likely to carry dangerous disease germs, because it is porous and susceptible to dust, etc. It is apt to gather typhoid bacilli or other disease bacteria and be the cause of conveying infection. We think there should be an agitation in every city, and laws passed to compel bakers to wrap their bread as soon as possible after it is taken from the oven. It is very important for the preservation of health that such laws be passed and strenuously enforced.

The Child-saving Work of Oklahoma

By D. E. Cripe.

The child-saving work of the Church of the Brethren of Oklahoma has just closed its tenth year, having been organized in 1902. This was the first State District to take up the work of caring for the homeless child by the family-placing method, although several Districts had at that time built orphan homes and were placing some of their children in families.

The subject of caring for homeless children was first brought before the District Meeting of 1901 by the late John F. Neher, and was considered for one year before final action was taken. The District Meeting, which authorized the work to be organized, was held in the Paradise Prairie church, near Coyle, Okla., October, 1902. Eld. Henry Brubaker, now of Newberg, Oregon, was the moderator, and he, with the reading and writing clerks, selected the committee to take charge of the work.

This committee entered on this weighty undertaking with an initial fund of eleven dollars, and it was expected to raise the needed money as best it could. The sentiment of the District did not favor the family-placing method warmly in the beginning. However, an organization was effected and a charter was taken out under the laws of Oklahoma with the name of "The German Baptist Brethren Home Society of Oklahoma and Indian Territories," and was dated Nov. 3, 1902. Since the name of the church has been changed and the territories have been admitted as one State, the work has been rechartered as the "Child Saving Mission of the Church of the Brethren of Oklahoma."

The first four years money was scarce and not many homeless children were found, so that not over four children a year were placed in homes. Since then more children in need of homes were obtained, and now the entire number of children taken in charge and placed in families is ninety-four. The largest number of children cared for any one year has been twenty-three.

This work in its beginning was founded on the fact that God in the infancy of the race instituted the family for the purpose of rearing the human offspring, and that this heaven-ordained home was a better place for the child than any man-made institution could possibly be. Experience has proved that there are very many good people who are anxious to take a child into their home, and do all that love and tenderness can to rear it to a useful life. This work assists the Father of All in "setting the solitary in families."

Early in the work the problem came up—the problem which confronts all who would work for the good of homeless children—Shall we care for the offspring of sin that is forsaken by father and mother? The Board felt the importance of this problem and took it to the District Meeting for a solution. This conference took the position that the child is innocent, that it had no choice in its entrance into the world, that it is as sensitive to neglect and suffering as any child, and it is as promising as the average child, and that it has a soul. It was therefore decided that these unfortunate children be taken in charge and placed in good families, the same as other children.

Many families have found that in taking a homeless child into heart and home they have taken joy and happiness such as they had not known before.

They have verified the promise that "he who receiveth one of such children in my name, receiveth me." It is sometimes difficult to say which has received the greater blessing, the child which has found a home, or the family which has found a child.

Early in the work it was found that to make it a success it was necessary to have some way of reaching the people. By the advice of some of our prominent Oklahoma elders a little monthly paper was started, which was called the Children's Friend, but is now known as Everybody's Friend.

The Little Brown Church

Many years ago, when the country was yet new, a little church was built in a small place called Bradford, near Nashua, Iowa. The building, as shown in the picture, was painted brown, hence its name. The following poem was written by Dr. Pitt, who has a sister buried near the church, in the lovely vale:

"There's a church in the vale by the wildwood,
No lovelier place in the dale;
No spot is so dear to my childhood,
As the little brown church in the vale.

"How sweet on a bright Sabbath morning,
To list to its clear-ringing bell,
Its tones so sweetly are calling,
'Oh! come to the church in the vale.'

"There's, close by the church in the valley,
Lies one that I loved so well;
She sleeps, sweetly sleeps, 'neath the willow,
Disturb not her rest in the vale."

Cutting Trees by Electricity.

It is reported in the German press that successful experiments have been made in various forests of France in cutting trees by means of electricity. A platinum wire is heated to a white heat by an electric current and used like a saw. In this manner the tree is felled much easier and quicker than in the old way, no sawdust is produced and the slight carbonization caused by the hot wire acts as a preservative of the wood. The new method is said to require only one-eighth of the time consumed by the old sawing process.

A Dreadful Silence

By Everett Marker.

The eyes of the world are apparently closed to one great evil—that of lewdness. It is threatening our children; it weakens their minds; it destroys their usefulness. It is universal in our land and is causing many to tread the downward road.

The goal of life is life. Therefore, we should guard our children against that which will ultimately destroy both body and soul. Our boys and girls should learn the meaning of sex from a pure source. The parents should teach it. They will learn it somehow and somewhere, and should not be left to find the light in darkness.

God endows each one with the power of reproduction (a power next unto creation); but, alas! how many are wasting this sacred endowment through ignorance.

Our children begin this evil practice in ignorance, but by the time they come to the realization of its effects, it is so deep-seated that it is impossible for them to extricate themselves from the bondage, except deliverance come from the hand of God.

What means this ominous and fatal silence on the part of fathers and mothers? We should awake from this fatal sleep and arm our children with the breastplate of moral and social purity. A few words in time will be sufficient.

Our parents tell us of the sin of lying, the curse of drink, etc., but, when it comes to that of abuse and illicit indulgence, they become speechless. It seems as though a sense of delicacy forbids an allusion to this important subject.

Did Paul forbear to rebuke his brethren because of fornication? How much less should we hesitate to teach our innocent children!

Our children should be kept from the dance-hall. Here it is their passions become aroused, and many a poor child is eternally ruined. In the cities, as well as small towns, our boys will go from the dance to the houses of ill fame and there satiate their passions, thus sowing the seed that will have to be reaped in later years by innocent children and, in many cases, by wives upon the operating table.

The young man that goes into the city and there is able to live a continent life certainly manifests one of the grandest traits of a noble character, as well as discloses the nature of his parental training.

The moving picture show is another weapon of Satan, by which numbers are slain. It entraps many of our children. Our daughters should not be allowed to enter the dark halls of those five-cent theatres: here many evil plans are made, and vice is paramount. In the larger cities these alluring dens are open on the Sabbath. Thousands of people attend these shows and stay away from church. It looks as though they have come to cap the climax and finish the work of ruin. One is forced to exclaim, How long will God permit it!

Our children will, in some cases, go, contrary to their parental teaching for a while, but the time will come when these teachings of dear old father will ring in their ears as never before, although he may be gone to his reward. We should remember that the prayer of a righteous man availeth much, and incessantly plead for the child.

"Lord, give the mothers of the world
More love to do their part;
That love which reaches not alone
The children made by birth their own,
But every childish heart.
Wake in their souls true motherhood,
Which aims at universal good."

Brethren, we should pray. God will hear.

Elder G. M. Lauver

Bro. George Myers Lauver, the subject of this sketch, became widely known, especially in the West, on account of his connection with Bethany Bible School, and his Bible Institute work in many parts of the Brotherhood.

He was born in Juniata County, Pa., Nov. 16, 1871, being the youngest son of Henry Lauver and Hanna Landis Lauver. His death, after a long and painful illness, occurred at his home at Maywood, Ill., March 17, 1912, while he was yet in the prime of manhood, forty years, four months and one day being his allotted time of life. He was married to Sarah A. Hawk, of Hummelstown, Pa., Aug. 6, 1899.

We know little of his boyhood life, save that when he was eight years old he came with his parents to Miami County, Kans., where he united with the church four years later. At the age of nineteen he was called to the ministry, and seems to have entered at once upon a special preparation for his life's work. He spent some time in McPherson College; then taught school a few years. After this he entered the college the second time, spending three or four years in the institution, completing about two years of the college course. Later he attended the university at Lincoln, Nebr., and graduated from the University of Nebraska.

While pursuing his studies, he did some pastoral work in Lincoln, as well as in Carleton, Nebr., and came from the latter place to Batavia, Ill., where he had charge of the pastoral duties until he entered Bethany Bible School in 1905. He was first a student and later became a member of the faculty.

As a student, Bro. Lauver had a marvelous capacity for work. He could devote eighteen hours out of twenty-four to hard study, and keep it up for months without seeming to tire in the least. As a teacher, he often displayed an equal ability for work. While conducting Bible Normals he would often teach all day, and then deliver a well-prepared address each evening. This he would keep up for weeks, and at the end of his engagement appear to be as fresh as when he began.

It could not be said that Bro. Lauver was especially adapted to pastoral work. His forte was preaching and teaching. Bro. A. C. Wieand, president of Bethany Bible School, says that he would class some of his sermons as the best he ever heard. He never lacked for something to say, when before an audience, and what he said indicated that he was a thinker as well as a reasoner.

He was a large man,—much too large for his good. He often said that his large body was against him, and for this reason he preferred the more retired methods of working. But he had a fine brain, and knew how to get work out of it. Had he lived to the age of sixty he would probably have been regarded as one of the best-informed men in the Brotherhood, in ecclesiastical history, which was his specialty in school work. Then he understood his Bible and knew how to teach its truths. He was never happier than when before a class, or when conducting a Bible Institute.

Bro. Lauver did not lay up treasures on earth. He was too busy with his studying and teaching to think about making money. Then, on the other hand, he did not waste money. His was a simple life, and he needed but little. He loved his Savior, the church, and was closely attached to his family. He not only revered holy things, but he taught his children to show due respect to everything that was of God.

As a teacher, he was highly respected, and the more his pupils learned of him, the better they liked him. In his death they feel their loss keenly. His departure was a great loss to Bethany Bible School, for the reason that he was a growing man, and was well fitted for the departments entrusted to him.

Feeding Hens for Egg Production

By Chas. H. Keltner.

In the production of eggs the hen serves in somewhat the same capacity as a machine, in that she converts raw materials into a finished, marketable product. The amount of her output is determined not only by her capacity, but by the quantity and quality of the food which is given her.

Egg albumen is rich in nitrogen, and no hen can manufacture great quantities of this substance from a ration which is composed almost entirely of non-nitrogenous foods.

The Maine Experiment Station, which has given considerable attention to the poultry industry, recommends the feeding of the grain ration in the morning, scattering it in the straw of the scratching place, and thus inducing a certain amount of exercise. A mixture of two quarts of corn, one of oats and one of wheat will be sufficient for fifty hens.

During the forenoon the self feeder is kept closed, but in the afternoon the chickens have access to some of the following mixture: 200 lbs. bran and 100 lbs. of each of the following: Cornmeal, wheat middlings, gluten meal and meat scrap.

Most any simple, home-made device which will allow free access to the food but prevent the chickens from getting into the box of food and wasting it will serve very well as a self feeder.

Variety in diet is appreciated by the hen. Chopped alfalfa or clover is nutritious and seems to stimulate her appetite, while sprouted oats in winter provide an excellent relish. This grain grows at a low temperature and can be easily sprouted in a box in the kitchen or furnace room during the coldest weather.

Remember that the chicken is without teeth and so must have grit supplied, while some substance rich in lime is needed to furnish the mineral matter for the egg shell.

Feeding Young Chicks.

Nature has provided the real young chick with a quantity of food which was taken into its system before it emerged from the shell of the egg. This should be used before it is supplied with more. All successful poultrymen give the young chick no food during its first twenty-four hours, and some of the most successful do not offer it anything until after forty-eight hours.

Moist food is still used by a great many, but there are many advantages to the use of dry food. After the first mixing it is always ready and chicks which are fed on it seem to be more free from digestive troubles.

A mixture of rolled oats, cracked wheat, barley, buckwheat, and cracked corn or kafir corn makes an excellent feed.

Plenty of clean, fresh water should be accessible, and as soon as the chicks are old enough to handle it whole grain may be substituted for the cracked.

The Best Method of Preserving Eggs.

The high price which eggs generally command during the winter months has led many to attempt packing eggs in the fall of the year. Lime, salt and other materials have been used with varying success.

The material that gives best results is water glass. Eggs have been kept for two years in this and, on being removed, were found to be in perfect condition. This substance can be purchased at most any drugstore at not more than twenty-five cents per quart. It is prepared by mixing it with eight to ten parts of boiled water, and may be kept in a wooden, earthenware or iron vessel. At the temperature of a moderately cool cellar it preserves the eggs perfectly. As fast as the eggs are gathered they should be placed into the solution. Only strictly fresh eggs should be used.

The Old Story in India.

By Wilbur Stover.

I have often heard some of our native Christians tell the story of the Lord Jesus in a way suited to their hearers that is quite adapted to the requirements of the hearers. A religious beggar went once to a village and found a great commotion there. The best young man in the village lay dying. He went to the house of the sick man, and asked what was the trouble. They told him. He said he had a remedy, but that it was different from other remedies, for whoever would take it would die, but the one it was taken to cure would recover. From the oldest to the youngest all refused to take it, saying that they would like to see the young man recover, but they themselves did not want to die. So the religious beggar offered to take it, and all fell to praising him and saying he was the bravest man of all, not only to find the remedy, but to take it himself, and lose his own life that their young man should live. He took it, and died. The man got well. And while the dead man's body lay on the veranda of the healed man's house, all the town was astir concerning the event. Presently, an old, old man came, an old religious beggar. He asked about the commotion and was told. Then, at his request, he was shown the corpse of the wonderful young mendicant, who would give his own life that another might live. He looked and, behold, the young man was his son! He took his son by the hand and, calling to him in a loud voice, said: "Son, arise; let us be gone from this ungrateful village. It is too ungrateful a place for even a corpse to stay." Whereupon the young man arose and they set out together. But the young man who was healed said, "Wait, I will go with you." His people opposed him; they said all the houses and lands were his; why should he go? But he said, "Only one would give his life for me that I might live. He loves me. Love is of more value than many houses and much land." And he followed him.

A Strong Doubletree May Not Be a Satisfactory One

The American farmer is a man who possesses good judgment, and any article of farm equipment which promises utility and durability is sure to be received by him with approval. The accompanying illustration pictures a very popular form of wagon doubletree, which has won general adoption because of its strength and durability. A number of large concerns are equipping their entire output with it. As one looks at its form, he can not fail to see that it offers maximum strength, having the draft pin in front and the clevis attachments on the rear.

But the strength of this article is its greatest merit. As soon as one horse pulls ahead of the other the load becomes unequally divided. The rear clevis is swung towards the tongue and the one in the lead is swung away from the tongue. The horse which has advanced has less load than the one which has lagged behind. As the driver has no accurate method of reading the exact draft of each horse this condition is not realized, yet it is a fact, and of much more importance than one might suppose. If the line of attachment of the clevises is four inches back of the draft pin—and it often is—the horse in the lead may have an advantage as great as twenty-five per cent. Indeed, the three holes need be only a slight distance out of line to make the draft as if the one arm of the doubletree were an inch shorter than the other. C. H. Keltner.

The Annual Meeting for 1913.

The Annual Conference of the Church of the Brethren, for 1913, is to be held at Winona Lake, Ind., in a charming park, admirably fitted up for gatherings of this character. The meeting was held here in 1910, and the place is so well known to our people that it needs no special recommendation.

The regular date of the Conference falls on May 13, but as this is rather early in the season for the conveniences of so large a gathering, the time is likely to be moved up to May 27, or possibly June 3. In due time the date will be announced in the Gospel Messenger.

Self and Sex Series

No more popular series of books has been written. Millions of copies have been sold. They have gone into all countries where Christianity and civilization have penetrated, and have been translated into many languages and dialects. The value of these books to the human race is inestimable. The subjects which they treat are ordinarily avoided, but are nevertheless of first importance. The books are warmly praised by many eminent men and women. Lives are unhappy, miserable and often wrecked because of ignorance concerning the very things made plain in these books.

There are four volumes for men and boys, written by Sylvanus Stall, D. D., and four volumes for women and girls, written by Mrs. Emma F. A. Drake, M. D., and Mrs. Mary Wood Allen, M. D. Following are the titles:

- "What a Young Girl Ought to Know."
- "What a Young Boy Ought to Know."
- "What a Young Woman Ought to Know."
- "What a Young Man Ought to Know."
- "What a Young Wife Ought to Know."
- "What a Young Husband Ought to Know."
- "What a Woman of 45 Ought to Know."
- "What a Man of 45 Ought to Know."

Homeseekers Read This

Do you want a home or an investment in a semi-tropical climate where you can gather fruit from your own orchard every day in the year?

Land is comparatively cheap here yet and will double in the next few years. Oranges, lemons, grape fruit, all the year. Peaches, figs, olives and all other fruits in season. Alfalfa cannot be surpassed in this community. General farming pays here. Poultry pays well.

Big profits in development of orchards. Delightful and healthful climate. Pure soft mountain water. Beautiful mountain scenery. Good Christian community; no saloons; good schools. Some of the Brethren already located here and a colony is being formed.

Write for descriptive literature or buy a ticket for Exeter, Tulare County, Cal., the home of the early fruit.

A Spot Overlooked

Southern Delaware has been neglected by the Brethren both as a State for home building as well as for church building. We invite Brethren to investigate our advantages here.

We have a fine climate both summer and winter. Fine never failing soft water. Abundant timber for wood and lumber. Land is level without stone, easily tilled and capable of wonderful development. We have a great variety of profitable farm crops such as grains, fruits and vegetables. Within 500 miles of Greenwood live 1-3 of the population of the Union assuring us good markets. Taxes are very low.

Brethren are already looking this way with intention of locating.

We organized the first Brethren Sunday-school at Owen Station, Del., in April last which is in a flourishing condition. This is within the bounds of the Denton congregation, Md.

Write to Mathias Hahn of Greenwood, Del., for his farm catalog, also about his proposed colony of Brethren.

Beautiful CALIFORNIA

Other States may claim to equal or to be better than that State, but the tourist, the investor and the general public knows and admits that California has no successful rival either from the standpoint of climate or from that of profits that will result from investment and labor.

They have made arrangements for a lot upon which to locate a church and they expect a strong congregation soon. Letters may be addressed to either of them at 323 "J" Street, Sacramento, California.

No better land than we offer is to be found anywhere in California. Upon it can be produced successfully any crop or fruit grown in the State. Here you have good land, the best of climate and the conveniences of city life, and land such as this selling at $200 per acre, on easy terms.

Our Annual Greeting

and MESSAGE to THE ALMANAC READERS

As time passes each year brings progress and prosperity to us in increasing ratio, and our community grows more and more stable in appearance. The soil is yielding better and better returns with age and the increasing skill in handling and irrigating it, acquired by the farmers. As proof of this, Mr. B. F. McEndarfer won the much coveted $100.00 Silver Loving Cup awarded for the best general exhibit from a single farm for three years in succession.

This year's exhibit consisted of 45 exhibits of grains. In addition to this distinction, Mr. McEndarfer won $180.00 in cash prizes, while others in the Valley won smaller cash prizes.

Work has begun on the new reservoir near the old ranch headquarters, and this water supply will help to irrigate the 1,500 acres of sod land which the Miami Valley Motor Power Company with their new gang plow have contracts to turn over during this Winter.

The outfit for deep well drilling is installed and at work with many contracts ahead.

During the past year 400 acres were added to the 200 acres of apple orchard already growing.

And last but not least, the Finance Committee for the new Church report that $2,500.00 of the funds for the $3,500.00 Church are already subscribed and some of the material is on the ground for the new Miami Valley Church of the Brethren.

And so with ideal climate, church and school privileges and conditions assuring success, we invite you to a happy home in Miami Valley. Inquiries will be cheerfully answered by
